FamilyNet wants to make you a “Mornings” person.

A new, original program seen exclusively on FamilyNet Television

ATLANTA, Jan. 21 (FamilyNet) – Imagine talking to the TV and the people you’re watching talk back. Start your day with a call-in show like nothing you’ve seen before. “Mornings” with award-winning journalists Lorri Allen and Larry Estepa launches on FamilyNet Television January 28. Call and chat about the headlines, ask questions or talk to their guests.

FamilyNet’s exclusive, original program, “Mornings,” began two years ago as a radio talk show on SIRIUS Satellite Radio channel 161. Now you can also watch compelling interviews with authors, politicians, recording artists, athletes and other newsmakers from around the world. Lorri and Larry talk about important, relevant topics and invite you to join the discussion.

“Our mission,” says Allen, “is to help viewers and listeners understand the world we live in and how current events affect our families. I believe in telling good news stories that carry a message of hope and redemption for our cynical world.”

Before working for FamilyNet, Lorri Allen reported and anchored for TV stations in Texas and Louisiana. She also hosted a weekly segment on “The Clemens Report,” which was syndicated to Christian radio stations internationally. Most recently, Lorri served as news director for FamilyNet Television, covering everything from national political conventions to Hurricane Katrina.

Larry Estepa has spent 35 years in television news and is a three-time Emmy Award winner. He has served as a reporter, anchor, news director and managing editor in cities across the U.S. Most recently, he was a respected and trusted anchor and reporter at NBC-10 and ABC-6 in Providence, Rhode Island. Estepa has covered some of the world’s most fascinating people and events, including Pope John Paul II’s visits to America, the presidential campaigns of Ronald Reagan and Jimmy Carter, the Rodney King riots in Los Angeles and the first space shuttle launch after the Challenger disaster.

“Mornings” gives you the chance to listen, watch and discuss topics that impact your life. Listen Monday through Friday from 6:00 a.m. to 9:00 a.m. ET on FamilyNet SIRIUS Radio channel 161. Or watch from 7:00 a.m. to 9:00 a.m. ET exclusively on FamilyNet Television.

FamilyNet can be seen in approximately 30 million TV households and is based in Atlanta, Georgia. FamilyNet also operates channel 161 on SIRIUS Satellite Radio. For more information, visit the FamilyNet Web site, www.FamilyNet.com or call 770-225-1400.
